MUCH APATHY IN ALBANY REGARDING CIVIL DEFENSE, BROWNE SAYS

Civil Defense Director Gerald Browne is alarmed at the apathy of Albany residents with regard to Civil Defense, which he stresses as preparedness for all emergencies.

"Our city could take care of but the most ordinary kind of emergency," the director said.

"What if one of the trains passing through our city should explode? Or a truck? Any number of things could happen; however, it is a fact that with improved nuclear weapons, we are in more danger of attack than ever before in our history," Browne said.

Because of Albany's location near Standard Oil, San Francisco and the airports in Alameda, this is a critical area. "We must have a plan for action," Director Browne warned.

"Where are school children going to go for shelter in a matter of minutes?"

"What will happen to clerks and shoppers in stores?"

"What will be done about taking care of people in the hospital?"

"What about our elderly and infirm?"

"We must be ready to take care of all these problems at a minute's notice, and we could do it. It is a matter of planning."

Browne said that if every family could take care of itself, it would go a long way to help solve the problem.

He has advised homemakers to stock up on canned foods, have a battery radio handy, formulate a plan of action in the event of disaster, and select a rendezvous point (such as Stockton), where the family members could go in case they are separated. (This is quite possible here, he said, where the breadwinner frequently works in San Francisco or some other place.)

Panic could be more dangerous than the disaster itself, Director Browne said. Among things that lead to panic are lack of information, fear of the unknown and rumors (listen to 1240 or 640 in the radio for official information); lack of education in handling your own fears; imitative behavior (everyone rushing for the same exit); and prolonged fatigue and hunger.

"The occupied mind has no room for panic," the civil defense director said, urging Albany residents to enroll in CD classes. The organization is ready to open a household class for women, which will cover all types of home emergencies.

The new women's director is Mrs. Frank Spires. She and Director Browne have high praise for members of the welfare unit of the American Legion Auxiliary, Post 292, who are stockpiling emergency supplies in the Memorial Building.

"Outside of the auxiliary police, this is one of the finest organizations in our city insofar as Civil Defense is concerned," Browne said. (See auxiliary picture in this issue.)

With a CD unit numbering about 1,400 persons on paper, Director Browne said that no more than 400 persons are currently active.

Men, women and young people who would like to sign up and take part in CD classes have been urged to call Director Browne at LA 5-7141 or LA 6-3591.

"There is no better insurance in the world than to be prepared for disaster. It in itself could be deterrent to attack," Browne concluded. "Russia has never let up since the war. Kids there are required to take this kind of training from the age of eight."

Freda M. Brown, Former City Treasurer, Dies

Funeral services will be conducted at 1 p.m. tomorrow at El-Holm Mortuary chapel for Freda M. Brown, former city treasurer, who had devoted most of her adult life to working for the City of Albany.

Although Mrs. Brown had been ill for some time, she was working at City Hall as recently as two weeks ago. She died Sunday at Albany Hospital.

A native of St. Helena, Mrs. Brown moved with her family to Albany shortly after the turn of the century. She lived at 737 Evelyn Avenue.

Mrs. Brown was elected city treasurer in April, 1920, serving until April, 1932. Since that time, she had worked as a part-time employee in various city departments.

She was a member of Albany Five No. 133, Ladies of Macabees; Albany Circle, UAOB; Albany Parlor No. 260, Native Daughters of the Golden West, and secretary and member of the Past Commanders Club.

Survivors include two brothers, George T. Meyer of Albany and Rudolph Meyer of Fresno; sister, Mrs. Laura Davidson of San Leandro; sister-in-law, Helen J. Meyer, and cousin, Foy Meyer, both of Albany.

The Rev. Claude Friesen of Albany Community Methodist Church and Albany Five Ladies of the Macabees will officiate at funeral services. Committal services will be at Sunset Mausoleum.

IS POLICE DEPT. OVER-STAFFED?

The question was raised at the Albany City Council meeting September 11 that the city's police department possibly may be over-staffed.

Police Chief R. M. Jensen's first reaction was one of dismay. "Under ordinary circumstances, we are getting by with one person on the desk and two to three on the street, but if there's a bad accident, one man has to drive the ambulance and we'll have only one man on the street."

"It isn't as if Albany were an isolated country town; we're part of a metropolitan area, so you

Chamber High Lights

By IRENE GROVE

Only the title has been changed — the column will remain the same. "Chatter" seems to be too "light" a title as a means of communication to you, the citizens of Albany, on the very important news of your Chamber of Commerce and the business element of your city. We want you to feel that it is your column — to give you the information about what your Chamber of Commerce is doing — publicity for Albany businesses and organizations, and we welcome your ideas and suggestions.

Your Albany Chamber of Commerce was organized and exists today for a most serious and important purpose, to promote the business and industrial interests of the city and to make Albany a better place in which to live and make a living. It draws its strength from the forward-looking business men and women who believe in building their city — who work together as a team to carry out projects they could never achieve on their own. This program can only be achieved by working in fullest cooperation with our city government.

All organizations must have a governing body — so it is the Albany Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, elected by their fellow business men to direct the activities of the organization. They meet each month to discuss and act upon issues that affect the business and cultural progress of our city — not only local issue but state and national issues that affect our city. Such a meeting was held Wednesday, September 20 — when a resolution was passed to approve the program of state highway projects for 1961-1962 as recommended by Alameda County Highway Advisory Committee — the Santa Fe versus Southern Pacific merger with Western Pacific Railroad was discussed (Yes, Albany has been asked to take a stand on this issue) — representatives from both sides will be heard before an official stand is taken — Rapid Transit was discussed with Chamber's stand opposing the proposed route through Albany re-affirmed — Albany Waterfront Development progress was discussed — Christmas street decoration was a topic and a membership luncheon for all Albany businessmen was planned for October 18 with Fire Chief Gerald Browne invited to discuss "Civil Defense Program for Albany" — This is your Chamber of Commerce in action!

Attention retailers! A copy of the information booklet "It's a Law 1961" is now available for you at the Chamber office. This book is all about legislation passed in 1961 that affects you as a retailer and was published by the California Retailers Association. New retail tax schedules have been ordered and will soon be available to you — another service of your Albany Chamber of Commerce.

Remember your Chamber of Commerce maintains a library of directories, reports, surveys, maps, tourist and travel folders, all for your information. Come in to see us.

By order of Mayor Joe Carlevaro, the week of October 1-7 has been set aside as Business Women's Week in Albany.

There are 351 BPW clubs in California.

Mrs. Sigrid Oakley, Albany policewoman, is president of the Alberito Business and Professional Women's Club, whose membership is drawn from Albany, El Cerrito and Berkeley.

On Wednesday, October 4, at 8 p.m., members of the local club will join with the North Oakland and Bancroft groups at Goodman's Jack London Hall in a joint observance of Business Women's Week.

A "Woman of Achievement" will be announced during the dinner meeting and she will be presented to fellow career women.

City Council Discusses Rapid Transit, Civil Defense Monday

Members of the Albany City Council discussed Rapid Transit and Civil Defense Monday night, while working through a brief agenda without a single "No" vote.

Mayor Joe Carlevaro announced that the Board of Supervisors has already acted on a resolution passed by the Council last Monday night and has requested further studies by the Rapid Transit District. He added that the assistant city manager of Richmond has supported the construction of a station near Golden Gate Fields and that City Administrator James B. Turner has been in contact with Berkeley regarding the extension of the Hearst route.

"If we stick to this, we'll get somewhere," the mayor said. "We've had wonderful cooperation from the Board of Supervisors."

The mayor said that he attended the City Council meeting in Livermore last Monday night, when petitions bearing 3,400 signatures asked the council to consider fallout shelters for the population. Mayor Carlevaro discussed the various problems involved in Livermore's situation, many of which would apply in Albany. He added that Albany is fortunate in having Gerald D. Browne as its director of Civil Defense.

"He is one of the top men in the state," Carlevaro said, announcing that as soon as Browne returns from Las Vegas, the Albany CD advisory committee will start working on a full-scale program.

Councilman Joel Parker reported on the recent meeting of the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Letters heard during the meeting included communications from Assemblyman Don Mulford congratulating Albany on its 53rd anniversary; Governor Edmund Brown, concerning adoption of adequate emergency preparedness measures; Alberito Business and Professional Women's Club, requesting proclamation of National Business Women's Week; City of LaMirada, encouraging construction of fallout shelters; Mayor Claude Hutchison of Berkeley, requesting cooperation in planning waterfront development; Albany chapter of United Nations, asking that October 22-28 be set aside as United Nations Week, and James B. Turner, requesting routine transfer of funds.

The council approved convention expenses for William Hutt and Richard Courtney to attend the California State Fireman's Conference in Bakersfield October 1-5; approved the certification of Raoul Harris as police department patrolman, and confirmed the appointment of John D. Malone as certified patrolman.

The session was adjourned in memory of Freda M. Brown, former city treasurer who had devoted most of her life to working for the city of Albany, and Bob Smith, past president of the Albany Democratic Club.

Survivors include his widow, Shelby; son and daughter-in-law, Robert S. and Ellen Ziegenfuss Smith of San Lorenzo; daughter and son-in-law, Sueann and Richard Gomez of San Leandro; his mother-in-law, Sara D. Caselli of Berkeley, and six grandchildren.

Speaking for members of the Albany Democratic Club, Mrs. C. K. Warner said, "His untimely death leaves a void that will be difficult to fill among our ranks. Bob Smith could always be counted on to do more than his share."

HONORABLE MENTION
Nelda Booras of Albany won an honorable mention at the Lodi Grape Festival for a painting entered in the art festival.

It is expected that many Albany Republicans will attend the breakfast, which is sponsored by the East Bay Republican Alliance.

Baby-Sitting For Moms At Albany Y

Albany YMCA will provide a baby sitting program for women's classes Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday mornings from 10:30 to 11:45. Pre-school youngsters who will be in this phase of the program are urged to bring a favorite toy.

Classes for the women feature figure control, stretches, bends, rhythmic exercises, badminton, volleyball and other games.

Enrollments are now being accepted at the 'Y'. Phone LA 5-4833 for further information.

A perky little Albany woman, Mrs. Lottie Moody Sandford of 955 Stannage Avenue, has been named national chairman of the Inspirational Feature Article Writing Contest of the National League of American Pen Women.

Mrs. Sandford is overwhelmed by the honors she has received in recent months, but perhaps her most exciting experience was getting a "favorable rejection" from the Saturday Evening Post.

"It was a personal letter from one of the editors," she said. "They didn't buy my article because they had something in the works on the same subject."

Among other recent appointments are: writers' section chairman for NLAAP, and publicity chairman for the Pacific South Region convention, which will be at the Hotel Claremont November 7 and 8.

An associate member of the California Writers' Club, she is working on a special project for the club's celebration honoring California writers Sunday, October 8, at Woodminster Amphitheater in Oakland.

Mrs. Sandford has a long list of publicity jobs to her credit, including the Alameda County Democratic Central Committee, Bay Area Traffic Enforcement Committee, Intercultural Christian Fellowship of East Bay, Northern California Chapter of the National Religious Publicity Council, United Church Women of Northern California-Northern Nevada, and Berkeley-Albany Council of Churches.

She was the first woman officer of National Religious Publicity Council; is proud of her membership in the National Safety Council.

The mother of two daughters, Mrs. Sandford has five grandchildren. In the past she was active in PTA, a partner and assistant editor of a large San Joaquin weekly, and an elementary teacher.

Her other interests include flower gardening and color photography, for which she has won several ribbons as a member of the Albany Camera Club.

With a seemingly boundless amount of energy, Mrs. Sandford has learned to "type almost anywhere — even in the back seat of the car." Her favorite position, however, is standing at the kitchen stove with the typewriter on the oven lid.

"I started that because I had a touch of arthritis, but now it's become routine. I can stir things on the stove or reach over to answer the telephone . . . it's real handy . . . Herb Caen even called the other day to ask about how I type!"

Openings For Tots At Child Care Center

Albany Child Care Center at 1140 Ninth Street in University Village has openings for preschool children, according to Director Marpherta Mayall.

Administered by the State of California through the Albany Board of Education, the Center is for children of working parents. Cost of the program is shared by the State and parents.

It provides an all-day nursery school program of rest and play for two to five year old children, a homelike atmosphere based on friendly understanding of the needs of children, and a broad daily program featuring literature, art, music and dramatic play, all suitable to the interest and age of the child.

A staff of trained teachers operates the center. Hot, well-balanced meals and tasty mid-morning and mid-afternoon snacks are included in the enrollment fee.

Miss Mayall has invited working parents to investigate the school. An interview and visit to the school and playground may be arranged by calling her at LA 5-2800.

Children's Home Society Group Sets Fall Events

Opening their fall season, members of the ABC group of the Children's Home Society discussed forthcoming events at a meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Lambert in Kensington.

Part of the agenda is the booth this chapter will sponsor in the September 30th carnival and Jazza, conducted by Children's Home Society, at Hidden Memorial Building, 3200 Telegraph Avenue, Oakland. Mrs. Donald Patterson and Mrs. Girard Johnson, co-chairmen, plan to feature articles made by chapter members during the summer workshop in addition to a white elephant sale.

ABC group plans its annual harvest breakfast at Mrs. Herbert's home, 246 Trinity Avenue, on November 5.

Mrs. Verne Jones and Mrs. Harold Denham have been appointed breakfast chairmen by Mrs. Carl Mayerhauser, ways and means chairman.

The chapter has decided to continue the workshops on a twice-monthly basis. Not only pleasant get-togethers, these meetings will provide articles for coming events to raise money for the society, which provides adoptive homes for children.

Chamber Board Discusses Vital Issues

The Albany Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors held its regular monthly meeting, Wednesday, September 20, at Bello Amo No. 2.

A number of important issues were discussed and acted upon. A resolution, approving the recommended program for state highway projects for 1961-1962, by the State Highway Advisory Committee was passed. Official stand on the Santa Fe versus Southern Pacific Railroad has been asked of the Albany Chamber by all parties concerned. Representatives from both sides will be asked to be heard before such a stand is taken.

The Albany Chamber of Commerce reaffirmed its stand against the proposed routing of Rapid Transit through Albany. An inquiry on the progress of the proposed Waterfront Development for Albany and what steps can be taken by the Chamber on this project, will be sent to Albany City Council.

Christmas street decorations for Albany were discussed, and it was decided that this matter be put in the hands of the merchants of both Avenues under guidance of the Chamber of Commerce.

A definite schedule was set for Chamber meetings to be followed this coming year: Board meetings to be held first Wednesday of each month; membership luncheons the third Wednesday of each month.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Albany Times:

The Albany Times is to be congratulated on this 53rd Anniversary of the City of Albany for its continued accurate, unbiased, and succinct reporting of local news. Even your critics such as Mr. Buckwalter must admit your reporting is true and factual. It appears he is particularly upset over your factual reporting of the raucous atmosphere in city council chambers on Monday evenings. Unpleasant as it may be, it is still news and should be reported along with other items of interest. If people persist in appearing in public places and acting in such a manner as to bring themselves before public ridicule they must expect such instances to appear in the press. Some inwardly desire such notoriety. We may thank Peter Zenger for our constitutional right of Freedom of the Press.

It may be remembered that Peter Zenger, a colonial publisher, was tried for criticizing the arbitrary actions of the royal governor. His subsequent acquittal made the life and actions of all public figures open to public inspection. Constitutional provisions such as this have made our country strong and insured, in the main, a high caliber of public officials. Those whose reputations and daily lives do not live up to public expectations soon realize their public tenure will be short lived. This is as it should be and as we have grown accustomed to accept in a democracy. Fortunately, the vital role of the press in this process is guaranteed by our constitution for there are those partisans who would like the lives of their representatives kept secret. They would like their own actions and public pronouncements kept secret. They fear the light of public inspection and would try to muzzle the press. Such political activity is common in totalitarian societies such as Spain or Russia but thank God is foreign here.

Pokey at Reading? Join New AHS Adult Class

Three evening classes in Rapid Reading for beginners, all starting this week, are being offered at the Albany Adult Center, 603 Key Route Blvd.

Two of the three classes, one on Mondays, 8:30 to 10, and one on Wednesdays, 7:30 to 9:30, will accept enrollments from adults residing in or out of Albany. The third class, 7 to 8:30 on Mondays, is filled to capacity.

At the class sessions, a teaching machine known as the "Controlled Reader" will be used, and the students will start at their present reading speed to read filmstrip material fed through the machine. The speed of the machine will be increased gradually, forcing students to adjust their eye movements and exert greater concentration.

Vocabulary study will precede the showing of each film, and every lesson will be followed by a comprehension test. A text book, supplemented by mimeographed material, will be used in the classroom.

WHO'S BOSS NO PROBLEM TO EMILY, ARTHUR BOSS; WED FOR 50 YEARS

Who's the "boss" after 50 years of marriage? Their home at 812 Washington Avenue, Albany, was the scene of a reception given by their daughter, Phyllis. Their grand-children, Arthur and Emily, shared their 50th wedding anniversary for about 90 friends, relatives, neighbors and co-workers.

The Boss is a member of Lake Merritt Chapter No. 410 O.E.S., and many of her fellow members were present. Arthur Boss was employed by Mer o-Nordstrom shoe Company in Oakland for many years. Since his retirement he has enjoyed his garden and fishing.

Arthur and Emily met in Canada, and were married in their own new home. Both had emigrated to Canada from Cornwall, Emily Carter was born and raised in Leicestershire and Arthur Boss in Cornwall. They left to "make their fortunes" in Canada, where they met and were married in Toronto September 3, 1911. They have made their home in Albany for the past ten years.

They have one daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Nickerson, and a grand-daughter, Julie. Mrs. Nickerson is employed by the Albany Unified School District and Julie attends Albany High School.

New Ruling Makes Limiting Sale Items Illegal

Because of a new law, which went into effect September 16, grocers are no longer allowed to limit sale items "one-to-a-customer."

The new law states, in effect, that limiting the number of items a customer may buy can be used as evidence that a merchant is trying to destroy competition.

"We'll continue to have sale items, but they probably won't be the hot specials they were before," a clerk in one of the groceries said.

She noted that customers have been very considerate and seem to be limiting themselves to one or two of the special sale items.

Robert G. Dennis Recounts Details of His Freighter Trip to Panama

By ROBERT G. DENNIS
Adult Education Principal Dennis, who lives at 849 Madison, returned from his fabulous trip, which he knows our readers will enjoy in his first-hand report. (Ed.)

A freighter trip to Panama, with its many accompanying experiences, is indeed an incredibly satisfying vacation. The rest and relaxation, the most enjoyable company of the other passengers aboard, the attractive and comfortable accommodations, and the abundant and appetizing food on the Norwegian ships that took me to and from Panama this past summer will long be remembered by me. The exciting trip through the Canal, my eight delightful days in Panama, and the long-to-be-remembered hospitality extended to me by friends residing in the Canal Zone are assigned by me to that category of personal experiences which I consider can happen only once in my lifetime.

There are so many places, events, native customs and unique things that are worthy of description. However, I believe that our readers might be particularly interested in hearing something of my fascinating visit among the San Blas Indians on the Island of Alligandi. This excursion was truly a visit to the Indian life and customs of yesterday, a sojourn with primitive natives who have preserved the purity of their race through unaltered centuries, and whose ancestral traits and customs are apparently much as they were in the era preceding the discovery of America.

Seeing the pipe-smoking women with gold rings in their noses and brass rings looped over their ears, together with decorative brown streaks extending from their foreheads down their flat noses to make them appear more prominent are sights to behold. However, let me trace my steps to the early morning hours last month when I left Panama with Mr. and Mrs. Charles, two other of the passengers on our freighter, on a single motor plane for this 200-mile trip to Alligandi, adjacent to the Colombian coast of South America. With the breaking of day, we were low over panoramic jungles that still hold within their mystic confines tribes of headhunters. When some 75 miles out to the Caribbean, we saw looming in the midst of dawn the San Blas Islands, their small areas overgrown with palm trees and dotted with thatched-roof native villages. Occasional glances at the spreading archipelago disclose a variation in island size from tiny islets with single house dwellings to the largest approximating two to three square city blocks and housing, I am told, from 1200 to 1800 Indians. All of these islands are under Panamanian government rule.

Our guide and interpreter, Mr. A. Inglesias, who met the plane at the narrow landing field on the Panama Isthmus, proved a fascinating person. Though a San Blas Indian himself, he is a graduate of Dubuque University, Iowa, and a Baptist Missionary. A short trip by launch brought us to our destination.

The three hours that I was on this Indian-peaking island were fabulous. There was a short visit at the mission school, which lacked so much of what we in California consider bare essentials. Classes, largely taught by natives, include instruction in both Spanish and English. Mrs. Ig'lesias, a Caucasian native of Minnesota, teaches most of the English classes. Children attend on a voluntary basis and are largely from the 20 per cent Christian element of the predominantly pagan population of 1500 on the island who still believe in the existence of souls or spirits in trees, rocks, etc., the same as in man. In visiting the classrooms, I was surprised at seeing several Albino children there, forming a strong contrast with their copper colored companions, and learning that Albinism is very common throughout all of the San Blas Islands—surprised, too at seeing, not pink eyes and hair that we in this country associate with this abnormality, but rather blue-eyed, toe-headed children with milky, blotchy skin.

Money actually does grow on trees in the San Blas Islands. Coconuts, as well as money, is the medium of exchange in the local stores where natives purchase cloth, tobacco and a limited number of other supplies. Huge stores of these bartered coconuts cover all available space in the native stores.

There was so much to see on our fascinating island trip. There were the Indian chiefs who were presented to us, the girls who did some native dances, and the medicine men. A visit to the home of one of these medicine men disclosed the herbs, the bark of trees, the animal grease, the leaves, and the coca that are used in the superstition practices of healing illnesses among the natives that are laid to the attack of evil spirits.

We went inside several family homes where we learned of the brides bringing their husbands on marriage to their family homes and residing in the large dirt-floored, windowless houses that were, in most cases, the homes of three generations of a family, all residing together as one unit. Hammocks constitute the family beds; cooking is done over a perpetually low-burning, open fire on the dirt floor, and the only lavatory facilities available are those provided by the adjacent waters of the Caribbean Sea. On our visit within one of the homes, a woman was preparing a gruel with pre-masticated corn—yes, the corn is chewed by the cook and expectorated into the liquid that will constitute the family dinner. (I didn't, I assure you, stay for the noon-day meal.)

Then followed short visits to the congress, where local men, but not women, determine the community policies; to the house where a native ill with rheumatism was taking a 30 day bath upon orders of the medicine man. This consisted of the man lying partially covered in a hammock and periodically pouring water saturated with herbs over himself.

As we walked through the village, I could see women departing for the mainland in their cayucas, or dug-outs, to get water in the hollowed gourds that filled the boats. We were told that all fresh water must

Rites Unite Two Well-Known City Families

Two well-known Albany families were represented at the recent marriage of Janet Miranda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raul Miranda of 869 Washington Avenue, and David D. Bruce, son of Mrs. Velma Bruce of 1131 Masonic Avenue.

The Rev. Laurance L. Cross officiated at the rites at Northbrae Community Church. Given in marriage by her father, a captain in the Albany Fire Department, the bride wore a floor-length sheath of silk mist taffeta with bouffant overskirt of the same material, which featured a chapel-length train edged in Venetian lace. A finger-tip veil fell from a crown of pearl and crystal. She carried an arrangement of white gardenias and stephanotis.

Her sister, Nancy, as maid of honor wore a similarly-styled gown of peacock blue taffeta with an overskirt of silk organza, a crown with short veil, peacock blue shoes and carried a cascade arrangement of pale pink carnations centered with white carnations. Other attendants, Dema Bruce and Judy and Diane Bernstein, wore identical gowns matching that worn by the maid of honor and carried cascade arrangements of pink carnations. Best man was Art Wise. Ushers included Pete Duggan, Tom Schmidt and Charles Marks.

The bride is employed by the Department of Agriculture. Her husband is an English major at San Francisco State. They are living in Albany.

Floyd H. Olson Opens Own Real Estate Office

Although the name of Floyd H. Olson is somewhat new as a realtor in Albany, he is no stranger to many local residents. In order to be of better service to his clients, Olson recently opened his own office at 1489 Solano Avenue.

He has been in the real estate business since September, 1950, first on San Pablo Avenue. Associated with Olson in his new office are Homer Liston, Flora Corr, Ray Nevala and Wayne Luoma.

A resident of Richmond Annex since 1927, Olson lives on Burlingame Avenue with his wife, Ruby, a daughter, and three grandsons.

Former Resident, Frank Tamba, Dies Suddenly

Funeral services were conducted at Ellis-Olson chapel Saturday for Frank John Tamba 56, of Walnut Creek, former Albany resident, who died suddenly last Wednesday.

The family lived for many years at 643 San Gabriel Avenue. Mrs. Tamba was one of the organizers of MacGregor PTA and had been active in Albany High School PTA. She was a past president of her guild at St. Jerome's Church.

A native of Tomales, Mr. Tamba was a member of Christ the King Catholic Church in Walnut Creek and of Teamsters Local No. 302, Milk Drivers division. He had recently completed Francis Conva'scent Home in Lafayette, where the family lived until moving to Walnut Creek within the past two years.

Survivors include his widow, Regina; daughter, Mrs. Thelma E. Williams, a graduate of Albany High School, who lives in Concord; son, Frank, who attended Albany schools, and three grandchildren, Judy, Steven and Gary Williams.

Interment was in St. Joseph's Cemetery, San Pablo. Ellis-Olson Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Know Your Albany Businesses

Max's Liquors at 865 San Pablo Avenue has the distinction of being one of the best-known and oldest-established business firms in our city. They first opened for business in 1923, selecting Albany because it was a small city with growth possibilities. Max's has become a business landmark for Albany at San Pablo and Solano Avenue carrying a large assortment of wines and liquors, tobaccos, candies, and a big variety of magazines.

Since the death of the town's beloved Max Etingoff, the business is owned and operated by his wife, Kathrynne, and son, Mickey.

Kathrynne was a registered nurse for ten years. She is a member of White Shrine Eastern Star, American Legion Auxiliary and a former member of Albany Soyoptimists.

She lives at 636 Madison Street and in addition to son, Mickey, she has a son, Harry, and daughter, Mrs. Lois Schutte.

French's Garage at 1550 Solano Avenue, specializes in motor tune ups, and has the latest in electronic equipment, a Heyer

Dyna-Vision engine analyzer with an oscilloscope and eight-inch screen, so if you need motor work done on your automobile, see owner, Glenn French.

French came from the midwestern region having worked in garages in Lincoln, Neb., and Chicago before coming to California in 1929. He was in the restaurant business at 1585 Solano, known as the "Old Dinner Bell" from 1931 to 1933, and was in the garage business in Sebastopol from 1933 to 1937. He worked in a service station at his present location from 1937 until he established the present garage on February 29, 1940.

His reason for his present business and location he states that he first saw the Avenue in 1929 and was impressed by the people and shops.

French is a civic leader and booster of Albany of long standing. He served as Charter President of the Albany Lions Club, 1943-1944 and is a member of the Albany Lions, Maccabees and Tilden Archers. His hobby is archery.

He lives at 510 Ramona Avenue with his wife, Ruth, and his sons, Kent and James.

Is It a Bird? A Plane? No -- It's Kaz Ostrom, New Albany Resident

A handsome, blond, blue-eyed Swede, who has become known as the "Viking of the Sky" through scores of daredevil parachute leaps, has moved to Albany's University Village.

Currently living at 1107G Ninth Street, Kaz Ostrom, 27, is working toward his degree in architecture at the University of California.

Since he made his first jump at Fort Benning, Ga., in 1957, Kaz has worked diligently to perfect his skill. It has now reached the point where he can predict where he will land a most to the inch. His specialty is exhibition jumps at fairs, community celebrations, or for advertisers.

Perhaps his most unusual exhibition was in March of this year, when he was "Harvey, the largest jumping Easter Rabbit" in Alameda. Wearing an outside bunny suit, Kaz jumped almost in the laps of hordes of delighted children.

Kaz has never been injured in 98 jumps in the armed forces or more than 200 exhibition jumps. His list of bookings is impressive. Among appearances coming up are half-time entertainment for the 49ers and Oakland Raiders, portraying Santa Claus at shopping centers, the water carnival in Santa Monica, an appearance at the Arizona State Fair in November and a booking from January through March at Disneyland. He frequently appears on TV, and is co-director and actor in a skydiving educational movie, "Under the Silver Canopy."

In addition to his rather full schedule as a parachutist, Kaz finds time for his family, his wife, Susan Jane, and son, Brian Scott, age 2½; to study and attend classes, and to assist in his

United Crusade Supports City Agencies

The Albany United Crusade campaign for 1961 is well under way in all divisions except Residential which is slated to begin October 12. Campaign funds support 263 agencies — over 30 of these city and county agencies directly serving the citizens of Albany.

The Albany YMCA is one of the agencies supported by the United Bay Area Crusade. In 1960-1961, this Albany agency had a total membership of 1,218, which included 527 boys under the age of 18, 468 girls in the same age group, and the remainder, adults over the age of 18. There were 1,893 sessions held, involving 29,541 people.

But statistics are cold and alone do not tell the story of the importance of this Albany facility. It is from the true stories of Albany youth who have received moral, physical, and spiritual guidance, that we get the real picture.

A father brought his son to the Albany "Y" for help in mastering physical skills. It seems he was left out of neighborhood games because of awkwardness. That little boy learned those skills and co-ordination and became a player in the Little League — no longer left out, but included.

Nine young people taking part in Life Saving and Water Safety program and being certified last May, worked as waterfront supervisors and assistants.

There are only two cases of the benefits derived from the YMCA by Albany youth who have become better citizens of tomorrow. "Someone's Depending On You" — the United Bay Area Crusade gives you the opportunity to do something about them.

Eugene Long, AHS Graduate, at Lafayette College

Eugene S. Long, a 1946 graduate of Albany High School and son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Long of Oakland, has been named an instructor in Spanish at Lafayette College, Easton, Pa., an arts-science-engineering college for men.

Formerly a Spanish instructor at the University of Vermont, he held a teaching fellowship at the University of Michigan during the past year while working toward a Ph. D. degree. Other degrees include a BA from the University of California in Berkeley and MA from Middlebury College. He has a diploma in Spanish studies from the University of Madrid.

He served with the Army from 1953-55, part of the time in Japan and Korea. His wife is the former Joan Reid of Detroit.

Park Employees Hear Woman's Cries for Help

The family of Mrs. Cuba Stoner, 88, of 821 Masonic is grateful for the assistance of two park and recreation department employees, Mel Ayres and Tony Kalberer, who heard Mrs. Stoner's cries for help Friday when she suffered a paralyzing attack.

Standing at the sink doing dishes, Mrs. Stoner became aware of a numbness in her arm, which spread throughout her body. She felt unable to reach the telephone, so she began calling.

Ayres and Kalberer, working across the street, heard her, made her comfortable and called the police department. Officer Bernard Johnson called for the fire department inhalator squad and took care of contacting other family members and making arrangements for her to be taken to the hospital. She was treated at Highland Hospital and released. As of Monday, she was recovering satisfactorily.

"We are so grateful to the park employees, to Officer Johnson and the fire department," a relative said. "We hate to think of what might have happened if the men had not heard her."

New Cal Students' Wives Honored October 2

University Dames Club, an organization of wives of students on the Berkeley campus of University of California, will honor all new students' wives at its semi-annual reception and fashion show at 7:30 p.m. Monday, October 2, in the clubhouse in Strawberry Canyon, behind the stadium.

Dames members are eager to help new women become oriented in the Bay Area, passing on general information such as good places to shop and where to get services they may need. Many families have found adequate housing through the Dames information service, and welcome participation in the Baby-sitting co-op. Another branch, Dames Aid, rents baby equipment at nominal rates.

There are 10 interest groups within the organization, including arts and crafts, needlecraft, music, drama, literary, world affairs, child study, charm and two bridge groups.

Many social activities include the husbands.

Membership is open to all university wives. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Hilary Rauch, chairman of the reception, at TH 8-9138. Those desiring rides may call Mrs. Gordon Taylor, TH 1-1671.

R. N. Zettel Will Address Kiwanis Club

R. N. Zettel, research economist for the Institution of Transportation and Traffic, will discuss "Whither Transportation Policy?" at the luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Albany and North Berkeley at the Red Barn Thursday, September 28.

Gordon Whitehead, district Kiwanis Club lieutenant, is to attend the meeting and speak briefly.

About 375 persons received polio shots at the clinic sponsored by the club last week. The next clinic will be October 25.
